

Golden Gate Strings

A New San Francisco Tradition

A Return to Elegance and Sophistication

At last there is an ensemble as sophisticated and with as much character and variety as San Francisco itself. From its elegant attire to its extensive repertoire, The Golden Gate Strings is unsurpassed.

The Golden Gate Strings was created in 2004 by longtime San Francisco musician, Su Buchignani. Over the years, she had seen the return to elegance in Bay Area events and realized that San Francisco deserved a musical group to complement this renewed elegance. Assembling an extraordinary ensemble of concertmasters and principal players from the Bay Area's finest symphony orchestras and creating exclusive arrangements for the ensemble in many styles from Classical to R & B and well beyond, The Golden Gate Strings was born.

The Golden Gate Sound is truly unique. Unlike any ensemble in Northern California, the group is equally at home performing a full classical concert or stretching out with Motown and R & B on the steps of San Francisco City Hall. Nowhere else can you find a group whose song list extends from Vivaldi's Spring to I Heard It Through The Grapevine with scores of selections in between.

In the few short months since its inception, The Golden Gate Strings has created quite a stir and the respect of both clients and agents. The ensemble has performed as a classical orchestra for the 2005 Convocation of the American College of Physicians, as a popular group for 2000 guests for Accenture at San Francisco City Hall, for a fairy tale wedding and more. Each performance is uniquely designed to reflect the client's individual taste and style.

The Golden Gate Strings add grand elegance to receptions, fundraisers, weddings and corporate events.
