Following is a custom entertainment proposal for a wedding event in San Francisco's City Hall with two different options for dinner music.

Ceremony Music:

Starlite Strolling Strings

consists of ten violins and viola, with grand piano or accordion and bass. A beautiful and impressive performance on stages or lining staircases as seen at San Francisco City Hall (left). Impressive long lines and formations, perfect for larger receptions or dinners. While the reference to "classical" music is generally relative to the music of Bach, Beethoven, et al, the term is applicable in a broad sense to an ensemble of all strings. This ensemble performs the typical strolling repertoire - Gershwin, Cole Porter, Jerome Kern, Andrew Lloyd Webber, Broadway, Continental, Latin, etc., as well as Viennese waltzes, Andrea Bocelli arias, Mozart and others.

Cocktail Reception/Dinner:

Unplugged

is an acoustic quartet consisting of two guitars, bass and percussion. They play all the hits of the Classic Rock era, from The Beatles to Van Morrison to The Rolling Stones. Perfect for background music Unplugged is worlds apart from any other band in the country.

Dinner:

Jacqui Naylor's distinct sound reminisces the bygone days of jazz greats, while infusing gospel influence and jazz interpretations of her own generation's music explains her ability to attract both old-time aficionados and new jazz enthusiasts.

Dancing:

Dick Bright's SRO puts on a show like no other band you have ever experienced. Dick Bright's SRO is a unique combination of six lead singers, three horns, three violinists, three dancers, plus a four-piece rhythm section! Visually as well as musically exciting, their repertoire includes music of the 60's, 70's, 80's, 90's and today.

On Site Coordination

For an additional fee, an Innovative Entertainment professional will be available to participate in one (1) site inspection, production direction and assistance, artist coordination and supervision for events in the immediate San Francisco Bay Area. We will work directly with your event coordinator, venue, and vendors to ensure a fully integrated and seamless event program.
